Asian Godfathers - Joe Studwell

2010-09-03

40 or 50 families control the economies of Hong Kong, Singapore, Thailand, the Philippines and Indonesia. Their interests range from banking to property, from shipping to sugar, from vice to gambling. 13 of the 50 richest families in the world are in South East Asia yet they are largely unknown outside confined business circles. Often this is because they control the press and television as well as everything else. How do they do it? What are their secrets? And is it good news or bad for the places where they operate? Joe Studwell explosively lifts the lid on a world of staggering secrecy and shows that the little most people know is almost entirely wrong.

Finding Islam - Iin Mutia 2014-11-01

"Bicara soal Taj Mahal, yang sering dilupakan orang adalah masjidnya. Kontras dengan bangunan utama yang berwarna putih, masjid yang berdiri di sebelahnya dibangun dengan batu paras merah. Megah, cantik, berwibawa, tapi sayang nggak ada jamaahnya." - Olenku Priyadarsani, India: Perjalanan Panjang Mengunjungi Taj Mahal "Menurut saya, penduduk Portugal baik hati dan berpikiran terbuka. Sudah pasti hal ini tidak dapat digeneralisir. Pernah suatu kali saya diteriaki "Yo Osama! Yo Muhammad!" oleh anak-anak muda yang bermodalkan celana boxer dan mau lompat ke sungai. Kalau di Portugal, anak muda seperti itu disebut azeteiro atau bahasa slank Indonesia 'alay'." - Nabila As'ad, Portugal: Jilbab dan Arti Sebuah Komitmen " Di Sulaymaniyah, ketika suami saya cukur rambut dan membayar jasa tukang cukurnya, ia diberi ucapan selamat. Awalnya, suami saya bingung. "Congratulation for what?" ujanya. Si tukang cukur dan teman-temannya menjawab, "For that ... " sambil nunjuk kepala suami saya." - Istiadzah, Iraq: Sepenggal kedamaian di Negeri 1001 Malam * Finding Islam adalah sebuah antologi catatan perjalanan 7 travel-blogger tentang Islam yang mereka temukan di berbagai belahan dunia. Pengalaman yang mereka dapatkan selama traveling, mulai dari kesulitan yang mereka temui dalam perjalanan, sambutan hangat penduduk lokal, hingga jejak-jejak Islam di negara tujuan membuka mata kita tentang pesan-pesan kearifan dari sebuah perjalanan. -QultumMedia- Stalking the Wild Dik-Dik - Marie Javins 2009-05-20

Stalking the Wild Dik-Dik is a spirited African adventure of a solo woman traveler whose overland excursion across the continent includes challenges, inevitable mishaps, and more than a few debacles. Author and world traveler Marie Javins is an unflappable narrator, who takes even the most bizarre and patience-trying situations with a dose of good humor. Javins fell in love with Africa when she traversed the continent in 2001 as part of a larger world tour. She later returned to spend half of 2005 revisiting the people and places that had so impacted her on her first trip. Javins was struck not by the desperation of Africa, but by its hope – the dignity of its people, the vibrancy of its cities, and the inherent adventure that is inherent it offered. Stalking the Wild Dik-Dik is a funny and compassionate account of the sort of lively and heedless undertaking that could only happen in Africa. Javins's brushes with wildlife are punctuated with more serious dilemmas. Through it all, Javins's experience of Africa is life-altering, and her witty observations make for the best kind of travel literature which takes its readers into the heart and soul of the continent.

The Bamboo Network - Murray L.
Weidenbaum 1996

Following in the tradition of generations of expatriate Chinese merchants, they began establishing small family businesses. Today, the authors show, these have expanded into conglomerate business empires. Entrusting corporate divisions almost exclusively to relatives, and dealing extensively with fellow expatriates, these entrepreneurs have formed close-knit and formidable business spheres throughout Southeast Asia - a "bamboo network."

Mapping the Acehnese Past - R.

Michael Feener 2011-01-01

Aceh has become best known in our times for its twin disasters—the worst earthquake and tsunami of modern times in December 2004, and a long-running separatist conflict that rent Indonesia for most of its independent history. Although this book emerged from the process of recovery from those traumas, it turns the spotlight on a more positive and neglected claim Aceh has on our attention, as the Southeast Asian maritime state that most successfully and creatively maintained its independent place in the world until 1874. Like Burma, Siam and Vietnam, all better protected by geography, Aceh has its own story to tell of a unique culture struggling for survival through the European colonial era.

Buku ini sangat menarik karena ditulis oleh beberapa penulis yang memiliki latar belakang keilmuan yang berbeda-beda. Dengan latar belakang tersebut maka memberikan curahan kisah yang khas serta goresan pena yang unik masing masing penulis. Seperti buku sebelumnya (Chayen di Negeri Gajah Putih 1 & 2), buku ini berupaya untuk memberikan semangat kepada para mahasiswa Indonesia yang kuliah di Thailand untuk terus berkarya dalam bentuk tulisan. Buku ini secara spesial kami persembahkan kepada Negara Kesatuan Republik Indonesia yang merayakan ulang tahun ke 71. Semoga hasil karya ini menjadi sebuah momentum bagi bangsa Indonesia dalam menorehkan sejarah pengalaman warga negaranya yang sementara menempuh pendidikan di Thailand. Kelak, buku ini akan menjadi catatan yang layak untuk dijadikan sebagai bahan rujukan masyarakat Indonesia yang ada di Thailand dan yang akan ke Thailand.

Finding Lost Space - Roger Trancik
1991-01-16

The problem of "lost space," or the inadequate use of space, afflicts most urban centers today. The automobile, the effects of the Modern Movement in architectural design, urban-renewal and zoning policies, the dominance of private over public interests, as well as changes in land use in the inner city have resulted in the loss of values and meanings that were traditionally associated with urban open space. This text offers a comprehensive and systematic examination of the crisis of the contemporary city and the means by which this crisis can be addressed. Finding Lost Space traces leading urban spatial design theories that have emerged over the past eighty years: the principles of Sitte and Howard; the impact of and reactions to the Functionalist movement; and designs developed by Team 10, Robert Venturi, the Krier brothers, and Fumihiko Maki, to name a few. In addition to discussions of historic precedents, contemporary approaches to urban spatial design are explored. Detailed case studies of Boston, Massachusetts; Washington, D.C.; Goteborg, Sweden; and the Byker area of Newcastle, England demonstrate the need for an integrated design approach--one that considers figure-ground, linkage, and place theories of urban spatial design. These theories and their individual strengths and weaknesses are defined and applied in the case studies, demonstrating how well they operate in different contexts. This text will prove invaluable for students and professionals in the fields of architecture, landscape architecture, and city planning. Finding Lost Space is going to be a primary text for the urban designers of the next generation. It is the first book in the field to absorb the lessons of the postmodern reaction, including the work of the Krier brothers and many others, and to integrate these into a coherent theory and set of design guidelines. Without polemics, Roger Trancik addresses the biggest issue in architecture and urbanism today: how can we regain in our shattered cities a public realm that is made of firmly shaped, coherently linked, humanly meaningful urban spaces? Sinophone Southeast Asia - Tom

"This volume explores the diverse linguistic landscape of Southeast Asia's Chinese communities. Based on archival research and previously unpublished linguistic fieldwork, it unearths a wide variety of language histories, linguistic practices, and trajectories of words. The localized and often marginalized voices we bring to the spotlight are quickly disappearing in the wake of standardization and homogenization, yet they tell a story that is uniquely Southeast Asian in its rich hybridity. Our comparative scope and focus on language, analysed in tandem with history and culture, adds a refreshing dimension to the broader field of Sino-Southeast Asian Studies"--

Prehistoric Textiles - E. J.W. Barber
2021-11-09

This pioneering work revises our notions of the origins and early development of textiles in Europe and the Near East. Using innovative linguistic techniques, along with methods from palaeobiology and other fields, it shows that spinning and pattern weaving began far earlier than has been supposed. Prehistoric Textiles made an unsurpassed leap in the social and cultural understanding of textiles in humankind's early history. Cloth making was an industry that consumed more time and effort, and was more culturally significant to prehistoric cultures, than anyone assumed before the book's publication. The textile industry is in fact older than pottery--and perhaps even older than agriculture and stockbreeding. It probably consumed far more hours of labor per year, in temperate climates, than did pottery and food production put together. And this work was done primarily by women. Up until the Industrial Revolution, and into this century in many peasant societies, women spent every available moment spinning, weaving, and sewing. The author, Elizabeth Wayland Barber, demonstrates command of an almost unbelievably disparate array of disciplines--from historical linguistics to archaeology and paleobiology, from art history to the practical art of weaving. Her passionate interest in the subject matter leaps out on every page. Barber, a professor of linguistics and archaeology, developed expert sewing and weaving skills as a small girl under her mother's tutelage. One could say she had been born and raised to write this book. Because modern textiles are almost entirely made by machines, we have difficulty appreciating how time-consuming and important the premodern textile industry was. This book opens our eyes to this crucial area of prehistoric human culture.
